

Osama Bedier
Founder and CEO, Poynt

Osama founded Poynt on the belief that payments should be more efficient, transparent, and uncomplicated for both merchants and consumers. Over the past decade, technology has transformed the way people shopped. It was time for commerce to catch up.

His experience as Vice President of Payments at Google and head of Google Wallet, running product and engineering at PayPal, and various leadership roles at eBay, Gateway Computers and AT&T Wireless gave him the foundation of knowledge necessary to take on the reinvention of the payments landscape.

With the adoption of the Poynt Smart Terminal, Osama believes that there is a strategic opportunity for distributors to provide their merchants with next-gen payment tools to help drive ROI and grow their businesses, as well as an open platform for innovation in the payment ecosystem for distributors, processors, gateways, and developers.

Under Osama's leadership and vision, the Poynt Smart Terminal is moving the payments story forward to a place where every player in the payments ecosystem benefits.